Terms and conditions

By signing in to the service, you agree that proposals and comments submitted by you may be published under your name, and texts written by you may be edited or deleted by moderators, if they are deemed to be abusive or inappropriate. Your personal data are not disclosed to external parties or used for other purposes than matters concerning the usage of the OmaStadi service.

Using another person's name without their permission is forbidden. Everyone is individually responsible for the consequences of using another person's name without permission. The online service is provided by the City of Helsinki. You can give feedback about the online service by following the Feedback link on every page.

Signing up

You will need to sign up for the service if you want to submit or comment on proposals, participate in discussions or report inappropriate texts. Signing up requires an email address, to which the password for signing in will be sent. The user can register to the Omastadi service in two alternative ways:

- The Tunnistamo service allows registration with accounts of external service providers (YLE, Google, Facebook), the AD-codes for city employees and edu.hel.fi codes used in the schools of Helsinki.
- The user can create an individual account in the OmaStadi service. The user then chooses a username and a password. The user must verify his or her e-mail address by following the link in the message sent by the service when registering.

The first log in through the Tunnistamo service is the same as as registration.

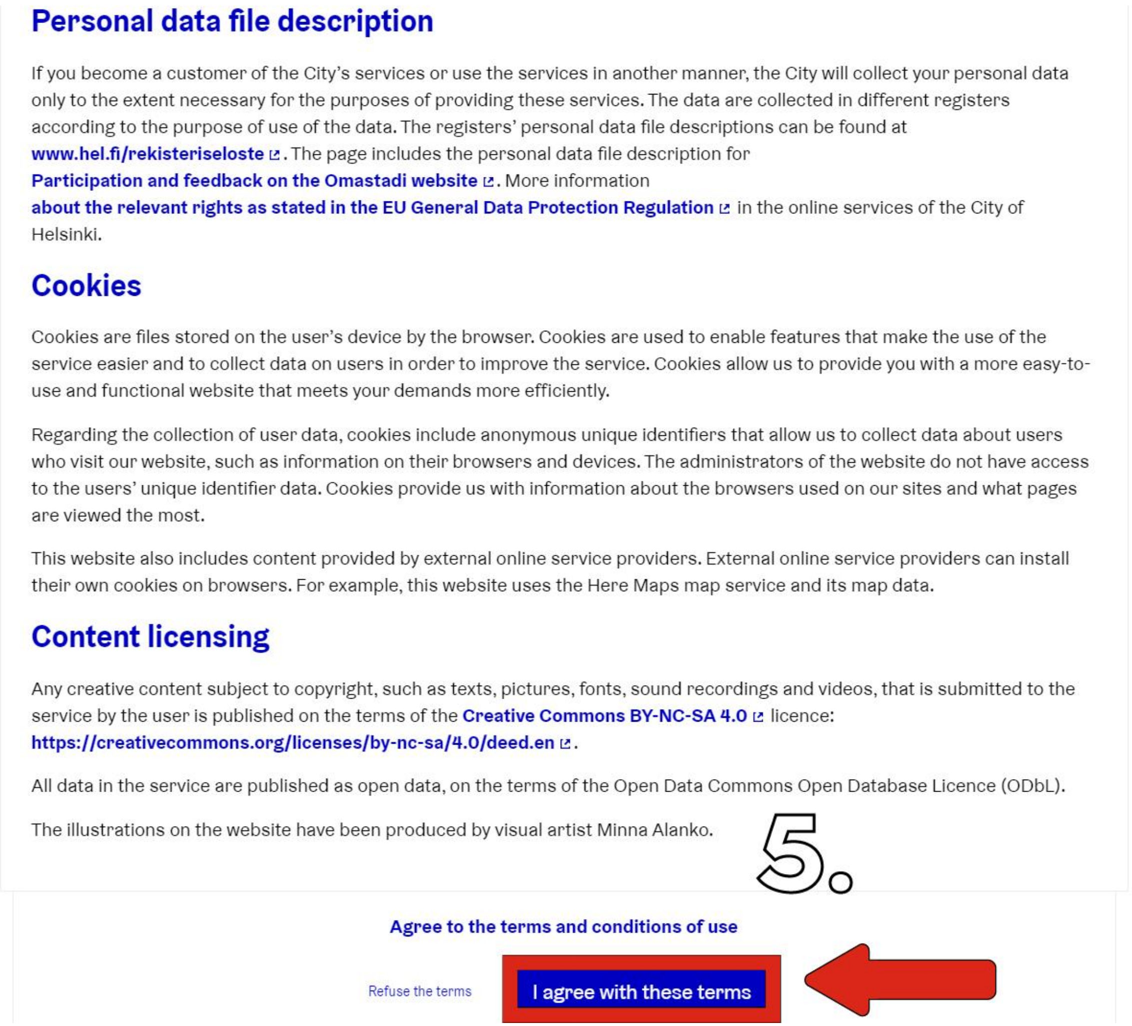
User's responsibility

All users have the full responsibility for their own writings and for the content of these.

As a user you agree and promise, regarding any content that you produce or submit, such as texts, pictures, videos, other attachments and materials (together called 'Material' here), to observe good manners and current legislation.

By loading or otherwise submitting Material to the service you agree that any Material subject to copyright is licensed with the Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-ShareAlike 4.0 International Public License (CC BY-NC-SA 4.0).

As a user you take full responsibility for and guarantee that you own the rights for submitting the Material to the service, and that the Material itself or its being submitted to the service does not violate others' immaterial or other rights.



Personal data file description

If you become a customer of the City's services or use the services in another manner, the City will collect your personal data only to the extent necessary for the purposes of providing these services. The data are collected in different registers according to the purpose of use of the data. The registers' personal data file descriptions can be found at www.hel.fi/rekisteriseloste. The page includes the personal data file description for Participation and feedback on the Omastadi website.
